

VIDEO GAMING

*Based on things I do or encounter

CASUAL LEISURE

PLAY

... Video gamers play video games casually and infrequently, often as methods of passing time or leisure-time activities. Often, these games can involve...

SOCIABLE CONVERSATION

... when playing on the Internet with online or offline friends. Conversation topics could include serious or casual conversation, both game or life-related.

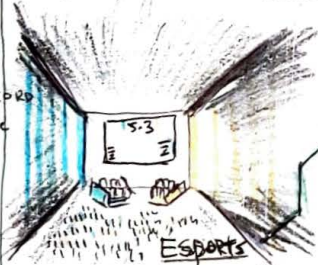

ACTIVE ENTERTAINMENT

... include video games of chance and/or party games which can be enjoyed single player OR multiplayer. Some examples include JACKBOX GAMES, a game developer specializing on party games using players' personal devices (e.g. phones, tablets, laptops)

Player 2

Esports from ↓ Saudi Am. CP
Tournaments, ON

ESPORTS

... leagues consist of amateur, part-time professionals, who play on academy or junior teams (sister teams to pro-league esports organizations). Some of these gamers are former or upcoming pro-players.

ENTERTAINMENT

Some gamers take part in tournaments for entertainment. Sometimes there may be a title, monetary, or in-game cosmetic prize that is awarded to participants.

Tournament Brackets

AMATEUR

HOBBYIST

SPORTS & GAMES

Serious Gamers take great pride in one or many games, often spending many hours and personal effort to complete challenging tasks. Their online social worlds take place in many forms.

League of Legends

World of Warcraft

Often, these games require a degree of skill or proficiency. Most gamers (likely) fall into this category. Includes individual or multi-player games.

SERIOUS PURSUITS

DEVOTEE WORK

PROJECT-BASED LEISURE

OCCASIONAL

... video game projects can include content-creation on YouTube or Twitch for leisure. Gamers in this category only produce content infrequently, to small followings

ONE-TIME

... could involve volunteering for or organizing a video-game convention or tournament, such as E3, TwitchCon, and the

Tokyo International Electronic Center

STREAMING ONLINE

... involves broadcasting yourself on platforms such as YouTube or Twitch playing video games live. Streamers earn money via tips, subscriptions, ads, and donations. Some gamers consider streaming to be their full-time job and sole source of income. Big/popular streamers often involve social worlds hosted on Discord and Reddit.